ON THE MARKET FOR A VERSITILE LABEL

A thermal transfer ribbon is a specialized printing ribbon used in thermal transfer printers to create durable, high-quality images and text on labels.

This is a solution if you're looking to transfer ink from the ribbon onto the label surface, resulting in long-lasting, smudge-proof prints. These ribbons come in various formulations—wax, resin, and wax/resin—each designed for different applications and environments.

Thermal Transfer Ribbons

Wax: Our wax ribbons deliver exceptional print quality with clean, dense barcodes and superior adaptability. Ideal for shipping, logistics, inventory, and pharmaceutical applications, wax ribbons offer durability and wide compatibility across paper and synthetic materials, plus antistatic properties for easy handling and printhead protection and versatile labeling solutions for various industries.

Resin Ribbons: For extreme durability and resistance to harsh environments, our resin ribbons are the perfect choice. They withstand solvents, abrasion, and extreme temperatures, making them ideal for drum labels and high-heat applications, automotive labeling and circuit boards while also being long-lasting performance in challenging conditions.

Near Edge Ribbons: Designed for high-speed, flexible packaging applications, near edge ribbons provide crisp, clean images and excellent image density. With print speeds up to 12 IPS, these ribbons are perfect for fast-moving production lines & durable, ensuring clear, long-lasting results.

Colors & Metallics: For applications requiring bold visuals, we offer color and metallic ribbons in wax, wax/resin, and resin formulations. These ribbons are perfect for adding vibrant, standout details to your labels.
